

spring, and then either use the seed as seed or beat it as a carrier for the insecticide. A little extra care (notably the use of a little extra lime) is necessary in the West India, where the soil is so acid. The seeds are fairly large and greenish, but the pods are fleshy and brown in color, about six long and one inch wide. The seeds are large and flat, broad, shaped somewhat like the garden bean. Young ones are green and bears a green tinge. Some are brown and bears brown.

ROOT-LIFTING AND ROOT-PRUNING FRUIT TREES.

It may be thought that root-pruning and root-lifting are nearly identical terms, but though one cannot lift the roots of a tree without (or the time being severing their connection with the trunk), it may be done in many ways without lifting them in the sense implied above. Whenever a tree is making too much growth in the roots, it may be lifted in the following manner, and either lift the roots and bring them nearer the surface, or prune them by opening a trench without lifting. The latter plan is common, and is adopted with views of large trees. Root-lifting is not so easily practised. Begin far enough from the trunk of the tree, being careful not to get within the range of the roots, as to cut the tap roots. In filling in the trenches get some fresh soil, if possible, to put round the roots, and for them to grow into, raising them in a firmly.

FRUIT TREES ON BELLINGS.

There is a good deal of bare soil upon bellings, and it is not so much to be accounted in growing fruit. Of course, the grimy walls in the centre of smoky towns would be of little use, but in the country there are a great surface in country towns and villages which would, if properly utilized, bear good pears, plums, and even peaches and cherries. The fruit trees are not so dear to purchase as they were a few years ago. Prepare the site well, and plant the trees in the autumn.

W. LEWIS:—The surface of the soil is covered with manure, and the following spring give water when necessary. The fan system furnishing a label for stone fruit, such as apricots, cherries, peaches, &c., are also successful well when the branches are trained horizontally. All young trees require more attention than they generally receive in watering, top-dressing.

There is no excuse now for any one to plant inferior varieties, as there is plenty of good seedlings to be had. For cooking purposes, the wanted, plant Victoria, Potato Seedling,

Fresh air is at all times necessary to keep plants in windows healthy, but from the cold winds blowing from the north, and at the top; if opened at the bottom a draught will be created that is calculated to do more harm than good. A cold current rushing through the leaves and branches. The plants will be killed, and the soil will be frozen. It is better to keep the windows closed, and at hand have any tender plants left in window-boxes may be taken out and put in a cold frame.

GOOD MORNING CEREALS.
A nation that uses heavy cereals, constituting 10 per cent of much use heavy cereals. In the short list below I have, as far as possible, listed the cereals that are used in various parts of the world. The very best cereals are too expensive to list. They are the cereals that are used in the most advanced countries. They are the cereals that are used in the most advanced countries. They are the cereals that are used in the most advanced countries.

is generally admitted that good plants cannot be bought for less than 10 c. each. If you want to grow your own plants, you need some friends who have a few hundred dollars' worth of land, or one variety, there would be no considerable saving. The best place to get them is from Mr. Reynolds-Hale, and though a post-order it cannot yet be dispensed with. You can find him at the same place as the other fine varieties; Countess of Paris, bloom; Baby, white pink; Pearl, blue.

There will be a nice lot of seedlings, but the above will give a nice crop of flowers.

FRANK'S SULPHUR SOAP,

THE FIRST LIFE GUARDS

No results having yet been attained by the steps taken by the military authorities to discover the man or men of the 11th Cavalry who injured the saddlery of the squadron on the night of Saturday, September 24th, orders have been issued to all leave on September 25th and to all men of non-commissioned officers and men of the entire regiment to be shipped still further orders. Those now on the regiment on leave have been directed to return to Windsor at once. It is considered probable that the pressure of the present may result in the required information being obtained. Tuesday, September 26th, the 11th Cavalry will leave for the 1st Life Guards. Captain C. Turner retires on retired pay October 5th, 1892.

ROYAL VISIT TO ABERDEEN
Princess Louise accompanied by Prince

Prince and Princess Henry of Battenberg arrived at Aberdeen on Tuesday to open the infirmary, erected at a cost of £40,000 in commemoration of her Majesty's jubilee. A large party travelled from Ballater by special train, and the party was met at the station by the Lord Provost and the magistrates. The streets and principal buildings in Aberdeen, as well as the shipping in the harbour, were profusely decorated. On arriving at the infirmary the princess was presented with a silver key, and, in reply to an address of welcome from the hospital staff, she said that she was assured that none of the pleasure she was deriving from the opening of the new building was due to the progress of the infirmary had already been watched with interest by the Queen, who, like herself, rejoiced that the nation was able to do so much for the sick and suffering in the ample and well-planned building, such an able staff of medical men.

TURF, FIELD, AND RIVER.
BY LARRY LYNN.

Members of the Turf Club, who are the only ones who are not members of the Turf Club, are the only ones who are not members of the Turf Club.

All the days of the past working week the betting has been constantly changing. Monday morning was the opening meeting of the week, and served its purpose to illustrate the unpopularity of Monday racing. Surely the national pastime is very much overdone in our times, or we should not have important fixtures thrust upon us on settling days. The Jockey Club should see to this. The members of the Turf Club are particularly anxious that no race meeting commences on the classic beats on Mondays, and it seems to me that they should be just as strict in prohibiting races held elsewhere on the day that is supposed to be sacred to the onerous duties of settling. Monday morning opens up a very extensive area to the schemers of the turf, unless they are so well managed as those that are supervised by the executive of Colwick Park. It was happening on Monday when the National Hunt allowed their first meeting of "sport between the flags" at Lingfield to clash with such a racing trial as Colwick, and it was more unusual still of the executive of Colwick Park to arrange for their principal race, the Nottingham Handicap of 1,000 sovs., to be fought for on the opening day. The weather was all against the meeting, as rain fell throughout the hours of racing, and the Nottingham Handicap was run chiefly on local support rather than the regular followers of racing. Backers had a dreadful time of it from the hour the ball was set rolling with the victory of Rainbow, a 10 to 1 chance, in the Elvaston Castle Plate, and the only favourite who was successful was Koorringa, who won the Castle Sailing Plate. In the race won by Rainbow, Miss Sykes, who defeated Red Enamel at Great Yarmouth, quite failed to run up to that form. Old Warley, who is now 5 years old, and has run in 100 races, of which he has won twenty-five, failed to show his field in the Nottingham Handicap. It is true that he only got home by a neck from Koorringa, but the old stager won very easily. His honour, on the form he displayed behind Windfall at Newmarket, was much flattered by this event, but he altogether failed to reproduce that running and was as near last as first. Platt, who rode Warley, scored again on Father Mathew in the Bestwood Nursery, and little Bradford, who had steered Rainbow to victory in the first race, won again on Understudy, who accounted for the "Tweedie" Plate, while Bird's Eye blew up the day badly for backers by blowing over the odds betted on Meadow Grass.

The good form of Warley on Monday was confirmed when Koorringa, his runner-up, that he had won the "Tweedie" Plate, and the running of this pair speaks volumes for the chances of Roy Neil in the Cambridgehire when calculated on the form we saw in the September Handicap at Manchester. I do not think that other events decided at Colwick Park call for much attention at my hands, and will simply wind up my notes by stating that when Koorringa, served by his maiden allowance, turned the tables on Koorringa, who had beaten him on the first day, he was certainly lucky, for when he crossed her below the distance he did her no good, and was fortunate to run the gauntlet of an objection.

The opening of the season held under National Hunt rules, which was inaugurated at Lingfield, has come upon us all too early. It began badly, as it clashed with Nottingham, and, like that fixture, commenced on a Monday; and, moreover, bad weather played the very devil with it. Of the races run on the opening day I need say nothing, but the chief event of the meeting—the October Steeplechase on Tuesday—deserves a word of passing comment, as its winner, Mariner, was persuaded to do his level best by means of a bottle of whisky, which he polished off with all the zest of an old toper, the favourite, Paul Fry, being unable to do better than run fourth.

Beyond the fact that the weather was fine and the fields large, no sensational features marked the inaugural stage of the October meeting held at Hurst Park. All the good things came to ground with the exception of the one who appropriated the Turf Club's Old Selling Plate, and was afterwards bought in for 300s. Arum Lily was, with reason, chosen first favourite for the Strawberry Hill Nursery Handicap, but she could only finish third to the unnamed filly by Galliard out of Lottie, who upset her with the ease of a feather. The race was a very close one, the filly, for which Lumber was a strong paddock tip, but could not run into a place behind Eclair, Nitrate Queen, and Romaner. The chief dish on the bill of fare, the Imperial Plate, was destined to fall a prey to the turned loose at my hands, and it fairly smothered Golden Crown, High Commissioner, and the rest of his field; while Luttrellstown beat better backed ones in Imishoon and Delaval in the Weir Selling Plate; and Vesta bowled over a much more fancied article in Egerton for the Maiden Plate.

On the second day backers had a very bad time of it, as only one favourite, Achilles II., got home; and the defeats of Lady Kendal, Canobie, Sea Salt, and The Lady Lily, by respectively Wolf, Glen Stirling, Little Lady Lily, and Shag, must have disappointed punters dearly. Owing to a blunder with respect to scratchings and change of ownership, Wolf's Crag's name did not appear on the card, and as that smart colt won there was verily no one among those who were not present to see his number hoisted.

The sport at Kempton Park on the opening day was worthy of the occasion. The chief event, the Great Breeders' Produce Stakes, fell to Tanderagee, who earned his third pair of brackets out of seven engagements this season, and a nice little plum he placed to the credit of his owner and trainer. White Star carried the colours of the popular secretary of Kempton Park, Mr. Hyde, to victory in the Middlesex All-Aged Plate; and other events need no comment.

There should be splendid racing at Newmarket next week, the Second October Meeting, when the chief events to be decided are the Champion Stakes, the Middle Park Plate, and the Cesarewitch. La Fleche is engaged in the first-named of these events, and so, too, is Orme, and if the owners of these crack colts choose to let them antagonise the question of their relative merits could soon be settled to the satisfaction of those who imagine Orme was unlucky to be beaten by La Fleche in the St. Leger. If they were to meet, which is unlikely, as La Fleche might be reserved for the Cambridgehire, which she will probably win, I should take La Fleche in the "Across the Flat" gallop.

On the same day (Tuesday) the Middle Park Plate, over the Brethby Stakes course, will be decided. The race, which, when instituted, eclipsed all other two-year-old events in England, is now a minor affair from a financial point of view. Nevertheless, there is a good entry, and although Meddler is not entered, most of the two-year-old cracks are, and I shall expect a very good race.

The Cesarewitch is run on Wednesday next, and this presents the aspect of a very open race. One is placed at a little disadvantage writing so long before the race, and any remarks I may make here I warn my readers may be amended in my latest notes on page 7. It is ludicrous to find such a pronounced non-stayer as Gouverneur, who, by the way, has turned round, left at the top of the handicap. Comedy will probably be the pick of the extreme heavy brigade, but I do not anticipate the victory of this mare any more than I do the triumph of Watercress, Russell, May Duke, Curio, or Simonian. Ragmundo, last year's winner, having won twice at the First October, is supposed to be the pick of the light brigade, but it may be that grim old Aigle has a better in Madame d'Albany or Rismarck, who is rumoured as a rod in pickle. Penelope should, on last year's running, lead Ragmundo safe, as last year's difference of 7lb. she rode as easily as a feather, and now has a pull of 7lb. more on Ragmundo. Possibly, however, Viney has a better in Helen Ware, and one of this pair should be dangerous if backed. I have no fancy for Lanthony, but Dare Devil commands respect as a Chester Cup winner. So, too, do Peck's lot. I cannot believe, however, in Filot's ability to win this race after his miserable display at Newmarket. Of the Falmouth House division I should prefer Balmoral or Hiley, who ran fourth last year and is now in charge of Percy Peck, and is not worthy of consideration, but after the above given, I have no fancy for Kentigern last week. I am inclined to favourably consider the claims of Roy Neil, who will have the assistance of Moray Cannon in the saddle. If Trapsodid proves to John Porter's satisfaction that she can cope with the course she will nearly win, and with the trying lack of a command no mistake should be made. Golden Drop is a great northern tip, and this gelding's claims are based on his second to Newcourt in the Northumberland Plate, in which he showed he could stay, and his defeat of Kyril, Edgemoor, Poligot, Lorette, Versailles, and others in the Breeders' St. Leger Stakes at Derby. Lord Gerard fancied Metello, but she may not quite get home. Glancing further down the list, the eye lights on such names as Koorringa, Burnaby, Ben Wyvis, Weymouth, Hancroft, Bessie, and Barle-Duc as likely ones; but I have no fancy for the favourite, Brandy, who will be little Bradford's mount. Reserving to myself the right of amending my opinion in latest notes, I shall now take the Cesarewitch and Viney's Bar to beat the field.

M. Ooms, the Dutch sculler, who played havoc with our amateur oarsmen at Hely, in attempting to maintain his title to the amateur championship of France last Sunday at Henley, was a very good sculler, and a very good bowing Club. Ooms paid the penalty of playing to the gallery. He allowed Leprow, who is a steeper, in the final heat to get so far ahead that he could not catch him, and not beaten by four lengths. The course was 1,500 metres, on the Seine.

Although our professional scullers and oarsmen are no longer able to maintain old England's rowing prestige, and are content to look on whenever colonial rowing men fight for the sculling championship on the Thames, a hurred contest with the belief that our amateur would not be beaten. M. Ooms taught us the reverse at Henley last July. It was, however, "a steeper and a steeper" to the experts of English rowing to find the London Rowing Club crew, who pulled in the inter-club event, against a crew of the Union de Sociétés Françaises de Athlétisme on Thursday last over a two mile course on the Seine, decisively defeated. Mr. E. C. Lehmann, the old Cambridge oarsman, who saw the race and described it in the Daily News, says the Frenchmen not only beat us, but they beat us in the way, but best them at all points of the game. The victory of the French oarsmen marks a new era in the annals of rowing in this country. We can only take our licking gracefully, and hope that time will give us the means to progress into decadence as our pro's have done.

It requires a great deal of talent and a great deal of luck for a League team to prosper in the travelling competition without sustaining defeat. Of the sixteen clubs in the first division, one only, Hunderland, has so far managed to avoid being beaten, although they were near the mark once. Preston North End, who were in the same proud position, without even a draw, last week went down before Notts. The team badly in want of a win. In the second division both Ardwick and Burton Swifts had a clean sheet so far as defeats were concerned up to Saturday, the latter being quite singular in this record, having won every match they had played in the competition. On Saturday, however, they met their fate in the shape of Small Heath, who beat them by three goals to two.

Notts Forest, who were expected to do great things in the League, had not a single win to their credit until they managed to get the better of Derby County. The only club in the second division who have not lost a game, is Hunderland, in the first division, one only, Hunderland, has so far managed to avoid being beaten, although they were near the mark once. Preston North End, who were in the same proud position, without even a draw, last week went down before Notts. The team badly in want of a win. On Saturday, however, they met their fate in the shape of Small Heath, who beat them by three goals to two.

There was not much interest evoked by the cup tie played on Saturday. The entire race in the London district attracted plenty of spectators. Royal Arsenal beat Marlow, Chatham just did Millwall Athletic, London Caledonians defeated London Welsh, and those old rivals, Ilford and Clapton, played a draw.

The Rugby season now is in full swing in the south, and last Saturday some very big scores were run up. The greatest sufferers were Portsmouth, who were defeated by Middlesex Wanderers by 3 goals and 3 tries to one; the Wanderers, too, had a sound thrashing at the hands of Ealing. Blackheath proved too good for Croydon by 3 goals and 3 tries to 0; a big score being made by Kensington against Old Paulines. Richmond were lucky to beat Rosslyn Park; and Harlequins did not make a very smart exhibition of Old Leylands, considering the latter were without several of their best men.

It was just as well, perhaps, that nothing of a record breaking kind occurred in connection with the athletic meetings of last Saturday. Seeing that it was the cross-country runners' opening day some folks might suggest that the flat races would have done well to let their meetings and with the preceding Saturday's programme. As, however, the harvest was out in force, despite the counter attractions of the cricket match, there is, after all, no great cause for regret, and paper-chases can now look forward to a high old time.

BARROW.—Football (Lancashire United v. Southport) was won by the latter by 5 goals and 3 tries to all.

STABBING AFFRAY IN THE WEST END.

Edward Langer, 34, a coachman, of German nationality, living in Middleton Buildings, Great Portland-street, was charged at the Marlborough-street Police Court on Wednesday with stabbing John Steffens, the injured man was too ill to appear.—Joseph Haller, a waiter out of employment, living in Shaftesbury Avenue, stated that about a quarter past 10 o'clock on Tuesday night, while he was returning with the prisoner and the injured man from the Alhambra a quarrel ensued between them in Little-street about a debt of 5s. Steffens and Langer fought together, and a policeman came and separated them.
